Summary/Description

An elegant pilothouse motor yacht that is suitable for coastal cruising, going to the Bahamas, or "doing the Loop", Last Resort has a spacious 3-cabin layout that includes two queens plus a generous bunk room, and still manages to stay under 50 feet (54' 3" with bow pulpit and swim platform).

An elegant pilothouse motor yacht that is suitable for coastal cruising, going to the Bahamas, or "doing the Loop", Last Resort has a spacious 3-cabin layout that includes two queens plus a generous bunk room, and still manages to stay under 50 feet (54' 3" with bow pulpit and swim platform). She is heavily built on a solid fiberglass modified-V hull with a relatively wide beam, giving her an open and cheerful full-beam salon with breakfast bar overlooking a fully equipped galley. With a light ash interior and large cabin windows, the overall impression is of a much larger boat. The pilothouse makes the helm easily accessible with superb visibility and access to the bow, which has a recessed foredeck sun lounge. The extended flybridge has lots of entertainment space but still has plenty of room for the dinghy, which is easily launched from the crane. Boarding is effortless through the swim platform and transom door.
