Exteriors

Every detail of the Absolute Navetta 70 expresses the allure of a completely new model, starting from the dynamic and captivating appearance of the exteriors: the flybridge and cockpit terrace are much larger compared to those of other similar yachts.

From the spacious terrace cockpit at the stern, where there is a third mooring station, a covered staircase leads up to the flybridge. Here one can enjoy moments of relaxation and socializing, taking advantage of the shade offered by the hard top, which can assume two distinct configurations depending on the customization chosen. It can, in fact, be openable if one opts for coverage through a sunshade, or fixed if one prefers the addition of solar panels, which are lightweight, efficient, flexible, and resistant to the effects of salt water. They are useful both while sailing and during port stops, improving the comfort of guests and crew on board. Absolute has always paid considerable attention to sustainability, even to the point of integrating this issue into the company ethos, which is characterized by a deep love and respect for the marine environment.

Interiors

Its interiors are supremely sensual and seductive, with bleached wood, tones of white, grey, and black, rounded corners on the furnishing accessories, and bronze detailing expressing a sleek and glamorous look. Freedom of movement is ensured by floor levels with a minimal use of steps, high ceilings throughout, and space-saving sliding doors. A sense of continuity is provided by the circular motif used for ceiling decor and light fittings. From all the interiors, vast windows establish a constant connection with the seascapes outside, in a perfect combination with the sophisticated design of the living spaces.

Flybridge

The flybridge of the new Navetta 70 offers a privileged setting, in two different versions A and B, from which to enjoy the infinite spectacle of the sea. It feels like part of a far larger yacht, with its progression of seamlessly integrated areas, from the forward helm station to a wet bar, outdoor galley, and dining table for 6-8 guests in the shade offered by a retractable canopy, to the leisure area astern with designer furniture that can be rearranged to suit the occasion, whether aperitifs in the warm light of the setting sun, or a platform for late-night dancing. The same sense of generous space can be found on the cockpit terrace and the saloon with its free-standing table and large galley, enhanced by the use of stylish colors and the exquisite crafts skill of Italy's finest artisans.
