Hull & Deck

The 65' Hatteras Sportfish Convertible is known for it's Hull Toughness. RENEGADE was built with the kind attention to detail that's needed for treacherous, world-wide off-shore and hair-raising conditions. The hull is solid fiberglass below the waterline, with nonabsorbent PVC foam coring instead of balsa coring used in the sides. The hull and deck are assembled using a shoebox joint and four-part bonding process: adhesive caulking. Monel screws every three inches, fiberglass bonding on the inside, and reinforcement of a 1 1/4-inch stainless steel rub rail.

The engine beds are steel plates encapsulated in the fiberglass. This more evenly distributes the tremendous forces generated by the big diesels and also reduces the amount of vibration transferred to the rest of the boat.
