Summary/Description

ABSOLUTE YACHTS, A FINE LINE OF ITALIAN MOTOR YACHTS

Leather seats, carbon dash, tempered steering wheel and chrome air vents you'd think you were at the wheel of a Maserati but you're at the helm of the Italian Absolute Navetta 58. Absolute Yachts Navetta 58 looks proud by a strong constitution appearance and she will immediately embrace you with a feeling of great safety.

It's a new look, European yards are doing it and people can't believe how much volume it contains. The interior layout is quite appealing with deep-buttoned leather upholstery, an onyx-topped coffee table, mocha-toned timber veneers on walls and floor and inset downlighting. The boat's near plumb bow, high topsides, stepped-down sheer-line, and prominent windows in the bow and topsides give it that undeniably distinct European look. The first impression of the Navetta 58 is one of considerable volume, especially below deck and in that spacious bow.

The entire cockpit is roofed and has a blind at the rear for privacy and sun protection. A staircase to port runs to the upper deck onto another large entertaining and relaxing area. There is plenty of space aft for sun loungers and deck chairs and farther forward there's an upholstered seating area with a table and built-in barbecue. A large electrically-operated awning extends from the radar arch to keep everyone cool in the shade.

A couple of steps up and you're on the galley and dining level, again surrounded by huge windows with almost unrestricted visibility. There's a U-shaped dining area to port with the galley to starboard. When you get sick of looking at the beautiful views from the salon seating the TV pops up with the press of a button.

The Navetta 58 has covered side decks and protection gunwales along the entire side of the main deck and the flybridge including solid handrails available along all passages to help with walking around the boat during rougher seas. Even the teak deck and steps have non-slip surfaces to ensure safety when moving around.

The strength of the hull and deckhouse on the Navetta 58 is apparent by the oversized windows which reveal a beautiful oceanic landscape when underway. With high-quality materials and advanced construction techniques, Absolute is able to use larger panes of glass for windows without compromising the structural integrity of the boat.
