Hunter's signature window line gives this yacht a sleek feel. The hull design features a wider beam further aft as well as a profound bow hollow. The result is a long dynamic waterline, which means speed. The deck features a sleek, modern profile with large side windows allowing for bright interior light. The deck hatches are flush-mount, offering a look that complements its profile.

The cockpit features a fold-down swim platform that extends the already lengthy cockpit when folded down while the boat is docked or at anchor. It's like having a 36' boat for the price of a 33. Extending the cockpit allows for a larger master cabin that features more headroom.

Overall, the interior has a rich look and feel. Enhancements start at the sole of the interior which features a hardwood flooring look that accentuates the true beauty of the Hunter e33's interior. Corian galley countertops feature complementing stainless steel fiddles that not only keep items from falling off the countertops in a seaway but also serve as excellent hand holds when moving about below. The interior wood used for the bulkheads as well as cabinet doors has been rotated 90 degrees so that the wood grain runs horizontally instead of vertically. Not only does this add a crisp modern touch to the interior, it also gives the eye the impression of a larger interior space.

To starboard, the comfortable settee features a center section that easily flips up to create a convenient chart table. The beauty of this system is its robust design...and no moving parts to wear out!

To port, the elegant dinette with upgraded vinyl upholstery sports Hunter's unique Easy Lift system. With a few simple cranks, the dinette table lowers to form the base of a double sleeper sofa. Above, near the overhead, Hunter has thoughtfully provided flat, fiddle-protected cabinet tops that supply even more storage space.
