Summary/Description

2012 Formula 400 Super Sport

First 300 Hours on this boat was freshwater only

High and Dry Stored

The Formula Super Sport equipped with the Mercury 525 HP EFI Bravo 3 outdrives is stored indoors with only 445 engine hours and 20 hours on the genset. NO STORM DAMAGE. Low hours and well cared for, she shows well and runs strong!

One enters the spacious open cockpit from the dive platform. The cockpit has a comfortable C shaped settee with a table, and an entertainment cabinet to port. The entertainment cabinet has a sink, refrigerator, insulated cooler, and dedicated waste can. Forward to port is a mates seat with the helm to starboard. The helm is low profile for great visibility, with a Raymarine E-120 Multifunction display, depth and speed display, VHF Radio, stereo control, and switches for all of the ships underway systems. There is also a opening in the center windshield with molded steps for a safe way to traverse the forward deck.

Down the companionway into the living space, a galley lies to port. The galley has a very large refrigerator / freezer, electric cooktop, microwave, built in waste bin, sink, and plenty of storage. All the way aft and to starboard is a dedicated sleeping area with a TV, hanging closet and reading lights. Just forward and to starboard is a sizable head with a shower and storage. All the way forward is a convertible settee, which can be used as wrap around seating with table, or converted in to an additional sleep area. (Pictured)
