Summary/Description

This USCG Documented vessel is currently slipped on Isla Mujeres, Mexico waiting for her next owners

This is a clean, well-equipped version of the popular Hunter 46LE. She has roller furling mainsail, electric roller furling headsail, electric winches, full Raymarine electronics, bow thruster, air conditioning, generator, full canvas and the list goes on.

She is currently slipped on Isla Mujeres, Mexico. She is USCG documented so do not fret!

Accommodations:

The Hunter 46LE offers a spacious and inviting interior layout. She is equipped with a large aft cabin to starboard and a unique storage/work room with work bench & toolbox/pantry to port. This area can be used for many functions. The aft head is to starboard and opposite to port is the large & well-appointed galley. Moving forward the U-shaped dining area is forward of the galley with a large dining table with a removable leaf to convert to a cocktail size table. The table also converts to a double berth. To starboard is a love seat/couch. Forward is the owner's stateroom with large centerline queen berth. The forward head is split into two compartments - a dedicated shower compartment to starboard and a toilet & sink compartment to port. Both the main salon & forward cabin are equipped with flat screen TV's and Bose sound system.

This 2005 Hunter 46LE is a well-maintained sailboat that is in great condition. Current owners are the second owners, and it has been well-cared for and never chartered. The boat has a spacious bright interior with plenty of room for sleeping and entertaining. It also has a large cockpit that is perfect for relaxing or taking in the views.
