Summary/Description

The Nonsuch line of catboats is a series of popular cruising sailboats built between 1978 and the mid-1990s by Hinterhoeller Yachts in St. Catharines, Ontario. They are popular in North America, with over 950 boats built and 67 of them being 33's.

The Nonsuch line of catboats is a series of popular cruising sailboats built between 1978 and the mid-1990s by Hinterhoeller Yachts in St. Catharines, Ontario. They are popular in North America, with over 950 boats built and 67 of them being 33's. The Nonsuch class was named after the Nonsuch that was the first trading vessel of Hudson's Bay Company. They're designed modified with a wishbone boom, on a 33-foot modern hull with a plumb bow, fin keel and balanced rudder. A beam of 12.5 feet and cambered house-top created a large interior with accommodation equal to a standard yacht several feet longer.

Salty Cat has been very well maintained and shows very well in person. The cockpit canvas and isinglass is in excellent shape, and the interior upholstery was redone and is in great condition. There is also no exposed wood thanks to the custom hard top, so maintenance is much easier. Typical of Nonsuch boats, it has a large cockpit and also comes with a custom fiberglass hardtop and full enclosure. The cockpit is comfortable for a family and the wide side decks provide easy and safe access forward. This boat is quite comfortable, fast, and is a safe cruiser for couples or family cruising.
