The NC9 features a spacious cockpit deck, that is easily expandable with a sliding cockpit bench seat that gains cockpit room fore-and-aft by taking it away from the swim platform. Likewise, the swim platform can be made larger, fore-and-aft, for watersports activities by moving the bench seat forward and taking space away from the cockpit. This vessel is equipped with an additional canvas 'overhang' for more shade.

Triple sliding glass door. This unusual door offers three positions to present the interior to the outside cockpit. This gives you more ways to bring the outside in. Slide the doors to port, to starboard, or place them in the middle with openings on both sides.

Helm sliding door. A sliding door right next to the helm allows access to the wide portside deck, and a midship cleat allows the NC9 to be easily tied up single-handed.

Innovative salon seats. The salon seats are all reversible and can go from dining at the movable table to facing aft and enjoying the company in the cockpit, to facing forward and joining the captain from an elevated double wide bench seat.

Hidden galley up. The salon galley is concealed in a portside credenza that remains centrally located when cooking, and concealed when cruising. Propane (gas) cooking system. Dual Stainless Steel sinks. Microwave.

Private guest cabin. Most express boats this size have a guest cabin that is under the bridge with crawl-in headroom and a curtain for privacy. The NC9 has a wood door and stand-up headroom at the head of the bed.
